Lebanon Valley College
Annville, PA 17003
Volume 84

The campus of Lebanon Valley College has seen many changes this past year. The 1998-1999 school year has been filled with new students, new buildings, and new plans. All of these bring forth a new atmosphere in the students, staff, and administration of LVC. This atmosphere is always one of good spirits and high hopes. Just as the world is ever-changing, so is the campus of Lebanon Valley College. As the Seniors set forth into the "real world," as the underclassmen move up in status in the campus community, and as the incoming Freshman get used to this wonderful thing we call college life, we can see that LVC is ever-changing. That is why we dedicate this book to showing all facets of life at LVC and how everyone is part of a "World of Change."

— Joshua N. Lindeman and Laura K. Simolike

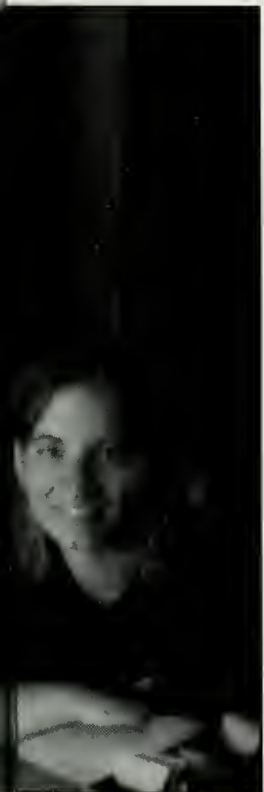

Student Life

A World of Change

Every year at LVC, the students are surprised by one thing or another. This year was no exception, as the campus went under “construction” for the fall and spring semesters. But due to the dedicated campus community, LVC never missed a beat. LVC still hosted a spectacular Homecoming, three outstanding plays (all with student directors, no less), a fun-for-all Children’s Day, a Quiz Bowl, the Math Olympics, Wellness Week, and Greek Week.

Each and every one of these memorable events has given the students at LVC a wonderful “college experience.” These experiences teach them valuable lessons that can help them succeed in our ever-changing world.

— Laura K. Simolike

"LVC Proud" orientation leaders take a break and discuss how to handle the large group of freshmen.

Disorganized freshmen try to figure out where to go for their next orientation event.

As night falls, the freshmen have a chance to socialize and get to know their new classmates.

A unifying activity among freshmen is learning the YMCA during Playfair.

Freshman Orientation

A few days before the entire student body returned to campus, the class of 2002 had the chance to get to know each other, the faculty, and familiarize themselves with their new surroundings. With activities such as Playfair, a big screen outdoor movie, a dance and various departmental seminars, the students were able to feel more comfortable in their new home.

— Kelly R. Cooney

Activities Fair

Every fall, LVC clubs and organizations attempt to capture the attention of new students to add to their membership. The Activities Fair is a way for clubs to demonstrate what they have to offer and explain what activities they do throughout the year. Students have the chance to add to their list of extracurricular activities and to meet new people through various organizations.

— Kelly R. Cooney

Phi Beta Lambda members Kelly Pannebaker, Lori Sweigart, Cindy Miller, and Angela Nash try to recruit new members.

Trevor Enck makes sure he's protected while speaker Maria Falzone talks to students about sex.

Wellness Week

For one week in the Spring semester, the residents of Friendship House and Weime House, along with other volunteers collaborate and put together "Wellness Week." This fun-filled week usually includes comedians, a faculty and staff versus student basketball game, free massages, and, everyone's favorite, condom bingo. This year's activities were no exception to the usual. Students at LVC were even given free swing dance lessons which were a big hit.

—Joshua N. Lindeman

Suzanne Snare and partner Brendan Weir practice their swing dance moves in the Underground.

Melissa George and friend learn about some Wellness Week topics at a table in the College Center.

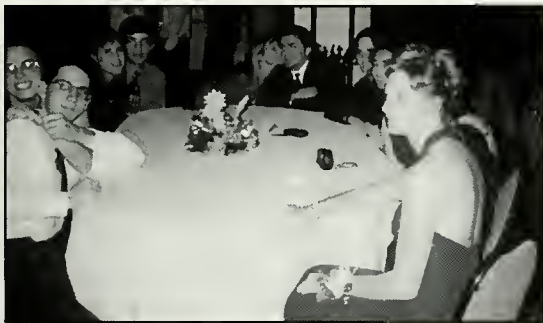

Important first aid information is on display for students to learn some new techniques.

Winter Wonderland Formal

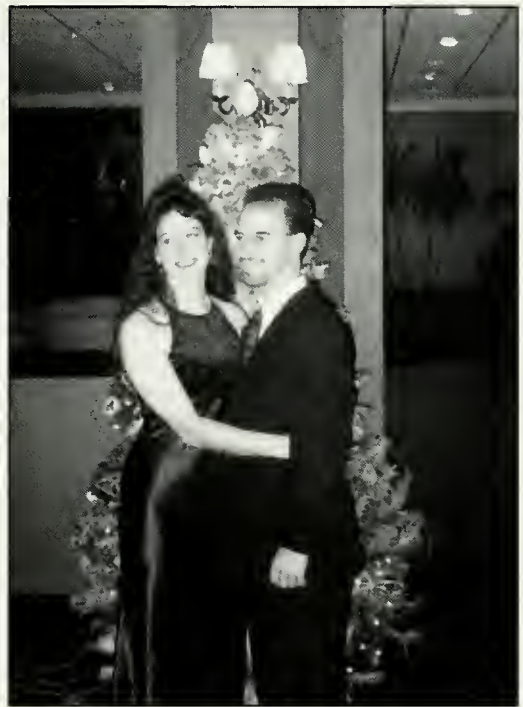

Student Government sponsored a formal dance at the end of the Fall semester. This was dubbed the "Winter Wonderland" formal and each table was decorated with snow and other wintry items. The formal was held at the Holiday Inn in Harrisburg and everyone who attended had a great time. We hope this new event from Student Government continues, thus introducing a world of change to the LVC students.

Everyone has a wonderful time at the formal as they "strut their stuff" on the dance floor.

The Winter Wonderland Formal was a time of capturing pictures and memories to look back on.

Homecoming

On a beautiful fall afternoon, five beautiful women were chosen by LVC students as the Homecoming court. In the end, Alicia Fiovaranti was crowned queen and, taking time out from the game, Matt Franks was crowned king. Family, friends, LVC students, marching band and amny others were present for the football game. They were also able to enjoy a walk through the Peace Garden and other events on Homecoming weekend. President Pollick was even on hand for special induction ceremonies to the Athletic Hall of Fame.

Greg and Kate argue about the situation with Sylvia.

Sylvia

This year, LVC's fall play was directed by Sophomore, Gene Kelly, and assistant directors, Ann Davis and Craig Underwood. Taking the lead role of Sylvia, Julie Smith added to her LVC theatrical appearances with her amazing portayal of a dog. Adam Kowal (Greg) and Emily Martin (Kate) team up as husband and wife who live in an apartment in New York City. Kate is completely against Greg's obsession with Sylvia and wants nothing more than to see the dog go. But as the play progresses, Kate develops a tolerance for the dog and gets used to having her around. Overall, this was a wonderful performance by all who were involved in the production of "Sylvia".

Greg (Adam Kowal) talks to Sylvia (Julie Smith) about her behavior in the house.

Tom (Andy Rirnby) lectures Greg about women, dogs, life, and the Yankees.

Greg's wife, Kate (Emily Martin), Phyllis (Julien Inzodda), and Greg converse in Greg and Kate's apartment.

The cast takes a bow after opening night and an excellent show.

Into the Woods

Taking the role of Artistic Director in the production of "Into the Woods" was senior, Actuarial Science major, Dan Post. Backed by a tremendous cast, the Wig & Buckle Society was able to present another great performance to the LVC community. Into the Woods was a play combining many popular fairy tales such as Cinderella, Little Red Ridinghood, and Jack and the Beanstalk. Each character in the play journeys "into the woods" for a different reason. We look forward to another great performance by these wonderful actors, actresses, and stage crew.

The "Wicked Witch" threatens her spell on the Baker's Wife - that she would be unable to bear children.

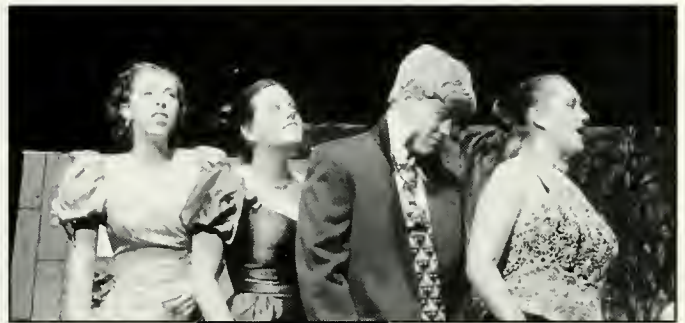

Little Red Ridinghood (Crystal Miller), the Baker (James Franklin), and the Baker's Wife (Kelly Roth) converse in the Baker's kitchen.

The Wolf (Michael Lobaugh) tries to bargain with Little Red Ridinghood while a human tree (Nate Davis) looks on in silence.

Cinderella's family (Ann Davis, Lauren Baptista, Matt Grzywacz, and Rayna Schell) on stage together singing about the one and only, Cinderella.

The entire cast of the play "Into The Woods" on stage one final time to take a bow after a magnificent performance.

One of many merchants selling their crafts on the Academic Quad was a man specializing in Wood Turning. His craft along with many others were featured this weekend.

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon stand proudly before their booth selling grilled sausage sandwiches.

Spring Arts

The weekend of April 23 through April 25, 1999 was jam-packed with events such as food booths, student bands, professional bands, crafts, and art. Specifically, the 4th Annual Art Show was held in the College Center and in the Student Activities Room. The headliner band on Saturday night was Big Tubba Mista, a swing band with LVC alumni members. The weekend was headed up by three brave students: Kathleen Calaman, Jody Jacobetz, and Kate Laepple along with many other student volunteers. A successful weekend, all in all, everyone would say!

Seniors

A World of Change

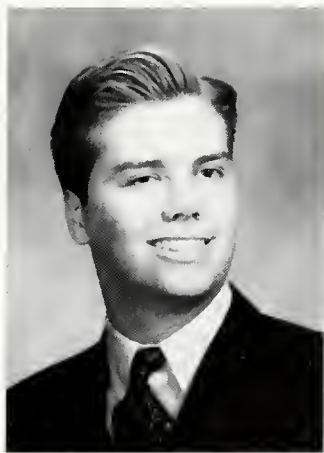

For the past four years, these dedicated students have strived for excellence. All of them achieved excellence in their respective fields of study. They have faced the ups and downs of this ever-changing world with a renewed sense of unity, friendship, and a glowing spirit. LVC has prepared each of the members of the class of 1999 with the ability to go out into the "real world" and change it for the better.

As they walk off the stage at graduation, they realize that they are leaving behind many cherished memories that have helped to shape their lives as adults. The impact they have left on the LVC campus will not soon be forgotten, just as memories of Lebanon Valley will stay ever-present in their minds forever.

A World of Change

Dedicated. That's one word to describe the faculty, administrators, and staff members at Lebanon Valley College. Each of them contribute a great deal to this college, whether it is through the education of students, the administration of the college, or staffing the library. This year marked the beginning of many new professors and others campus-wide, bringing with them a "world of change." Their hard work with the many students of Lebanon Valley can be seen in the close, personal relationships they have formed. Because of these relationships, students are more appreciative of the faculty, administrators, and staff.

— Amy J. Vituszynski

President G. David Pollick

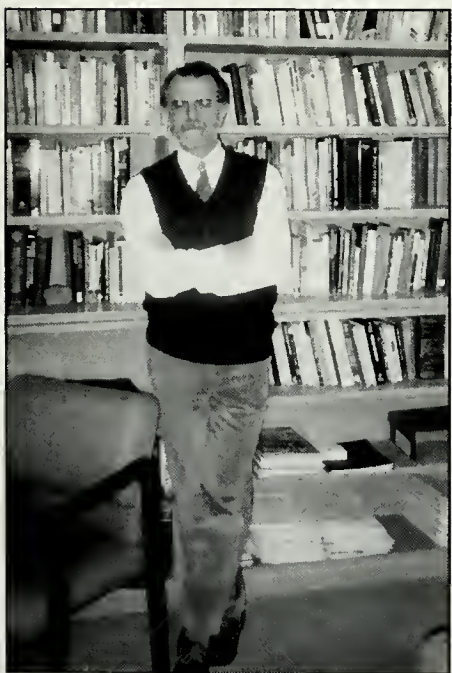

President Pollick has guided Lebanon Valley College through some major changes this past year, and for that the students, faculty, staff, and the entire Quittapahilla organization thank him. To you, President Pollick, we dedicate this yearbook because you have seen the campus through a "world of change."

Athletics

A World of Change

The 1998-1999 LVC school year saw many changes in athletics. The Men's Ice Hockey team had their inaugural season, where they used Hershey Arena as their home ice. The Mens Baseball team found a new place to call home as they had a brand new stadium built for students, faculty, and fans to enjoy. The Mens Basketball team is also worth mentioning because senior stand-outs such as Andy Parks and Dan Strobeck were lost to graduation. All of these changes in LVC sports are great examples of "A World of Change."

Cheerleading

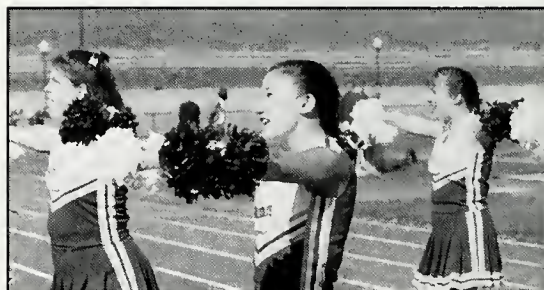

The Cheerleading squad for the 1998-1999 school year was headed up by a returning graduate, Jason Lausch. Jason, a graduate of the class of 1998 came back to coach and show the cheerleading squad some new moves. It proved very worthwhile because without the squad, the football and basketball games would not have been the same. The clever moves and performances of the cheerleading squad evoked many cheers from the fans themselves, as they accompanied the basketball team to victory after victory. This squad will not be looked over lightly - they are getting more and more powerful as the years progress.

Organizations

A World of Change

Most students will agree that the four years spent in college are much more than studying and taking tests. Organizations are a way for students to escape the daily stress of classes and relax and have fun. They also provide a way to meet other students on the LVC campus. If you ask any student who is involved in extracurricular activities, they will probably tell you some of their fondest college memories and best friendships were made through the various clubs and organizations on campus. In the fall of every year, the activities fair is a way for new and current students to see what clubs exist and get to know a little bit about them.

Greek Life

A World of Change

Every year fraternities and sororities vie to capture the attention of students on campus. Through the activities fair, smokers and socials, they are able to demonstrate what they are about. Open and closed socials are a way of getting to know the sisters/brothers, have fun and ask any questions. The month of February brings pledging, a challenging month that, in the end, is well worth it as the pledge finds in their fraternity/sorority a new family. Greek Week, the annual battle among Greeks, comes around in April. Events such as the tug o' war, dodge ball, pie eating contest and everybody's favorites, the wheelbarrow and tricycle races are a time of fun, socializing and all-out war among Greeks.

Music

A World of Change

The Marching Band, the largest of all the music groups on campus, begins their season in the fall before any students return back from summer break. They entertain us at football games, where this year they chose a Latin theme. Other music groups, such as the ensembles and quintets performed concerts throughout the school year. The Chamber Choir got the opportunity to travel to London for two weeks following graduation where they performed and visited the city's tourist attractions. One of everyone's favorite musical productions is Christmas at the Valley, a performance for the LVC community to get everyone in the holiday mood.

Commencement

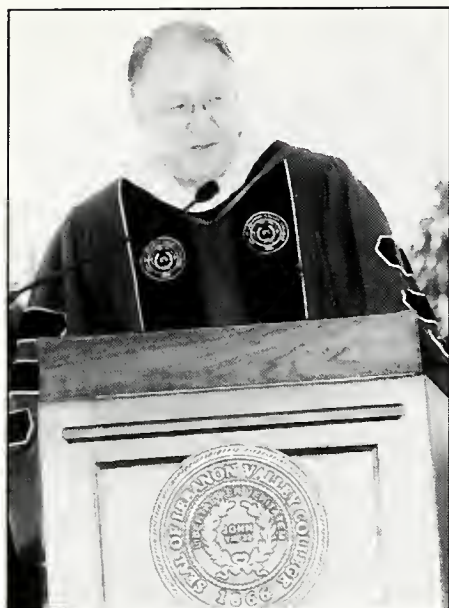

A World of Change

How can you sum up four years of memories, friendships, tears, victories and failures into one paragraph? For these seniors, graduation day meant not only getting a degree, but walking away from what became their family and home for the past four years. May 15, 1999 saw the end of an era, but also the beginning of bright futures for these 350 graduates, the largest graduating class in LVC history. Dean MacDonald presented the address to the graduates, while Senior, Dan Post, received the Howard Anthony Neidig Award and Leslie Bowen received the Nevelyn Knisley Award for inspirational teaching. The graduation ceremony was held on Arnold Field, a change from the annual routine of holding commencement on the academic quad, thus giving Lebanon Valley College "A World of Change".

Closing

A World of Change

Lebanon Valley College has gone through many changes this past year, all of them good for the school. The yearbook's theme of "A World of Change" can be seen throughout the campus in many aspects. Even the yearbook has undergone change this past year. In order to survive in a world of change, one must be adaptable - something one learns while they attend any of LVC's classes or activities or sporting events. LVC is a great school, all of the graduates agree. It has prepared us well for the "real world" we all face in due time. Congratulations to all of LVC's graduates of the class of 1999. We hope this book is a good reminder of your times here at the Valley.

Meet the Editors

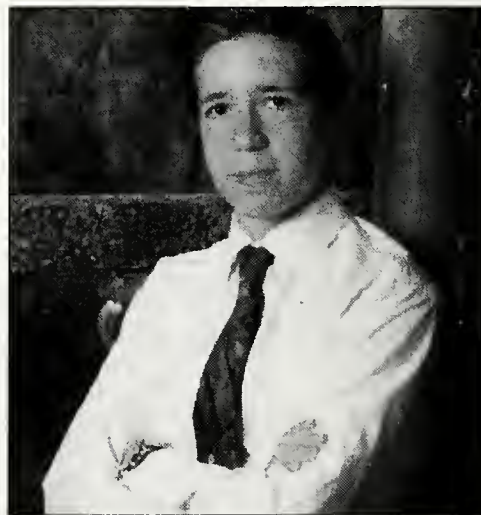

Joshua N. Lindeman, Sophomore Actuarial Science major/Computer Science minor; WLVC; Math Quiz Bowl; Alpha Phi Omega; Student Programming Board; Student Judicial Board; Quittapahilla.

I was originally named the Copy Editor for the 1999 Quittapahilla by Carrie Stull. But, after having worked on this yearbook for a little while I have realized that when you have a staff of two regular people and a few others who gratefully volunteer their time, it is impossible to be selfish and do only the job that you were named to. Therefore, I'd like to first thank Kelly Cooney, for without her and her ability to adapt to many different roles, this yearbook would not see the light of day. Also as I briefly mentioned above, those people who gave of their time voluntarily - you know who you all are. Ed Patrick from Taylor Publishing Company deserves some recognition because without his patience and willingness to meet with us during our busy schedules, this book would not have even gotten off the ground. The staff of the college center for helping us out by doing mail runs or other necessary things. Thanks to Student Government and the administration of LVC for giving us the funds necessary to relieve our debt from previous years. Finally, I give thanks to my advisors from high school, Mrs. Phyllis Silverman and Mrs. Jean Elcherly who got me interested in yearbook publishing. Congratulations to the Class of 1999. I only hope this yearbook gives you a good glimpse of life at LVC and your years here at "The Valley."

Kelly R. Cooney, Sophomore Accounting major; Accounting Club; Phi Beta Lambda; Business Department Mentor; Gamma Sigma Sigma, Quittapahilla.

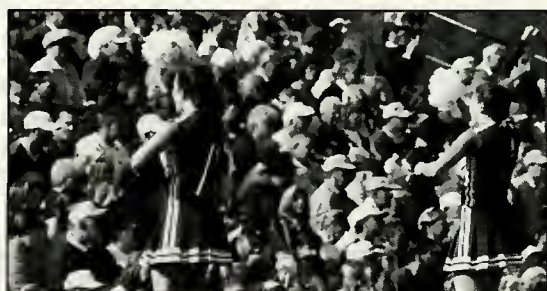

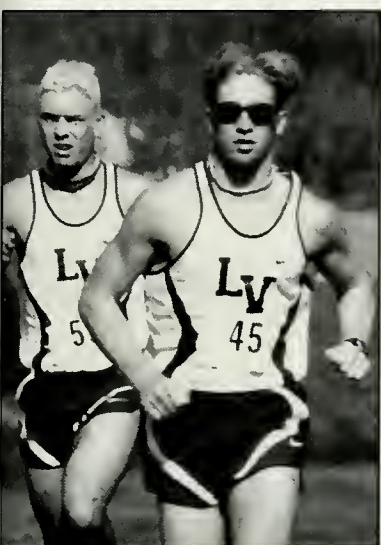

When we began this year, I was asked by Carrie Stull, the editor of last year's yearbook to be the Organizational Editor. But as the year progressed, I turned into a copy writer, photographer, layout designer and contact person to deal with phone calls from alumnae, students, parents, and LVC staff. Going into this project having no idea where to begin and having no experience, this seemed like an impossible goal. But 11 months later, after endless trips to school over the summer, we finally finished the book. Without the help of numerous people, this never would have been possible. First, I would like to thank Taylor Publishing and our representative, Ed Patrick, Jr. for getting us on the right track back in September. To DaVor Photography for delivering our pictures to us in a timely fashion. To Shirley Ritter in the mail room for handling all of our packages going out and coming in. To Josh and Laura - we did it! Thank you both for all of your hard work, especially with those last minute club and faculty pictures. To all of the people who helped throughout the year - John Banks, Laura DeHart, Gene Kelly and Amy Stack - your help was definitely appreciated. To all of the 1999 graduates, especially my TΣΣ sisters, best of luck in everything!

Laura K. Simolike, Sophomore Elementary Education/Spanish major; SPSEA; Mentor to 10th graders; Best Buddies; Quittapahilla.

I would like to thank Taylor Publishing Company for supporting us and helping show us the way, which allowed us to put together a wonderful yearbook. I would also like to thank Dean Yuhas and Jen Evans for giving us exactly what we needed to put out this fabulous book. I would like to wish the class of 1999 the very best of luck in everything that they do as they go out into a world that is, as our book says, "full of change." Last, but certainly not least, I have to thank my amazing co-editors, Josh and Kelly. Both of you know that this book would not be here if it weren't for the two of you. Thanks for putting up with me and for making this book incredible. Especially you Kelly - you deserve a thousand pats on the back, and I truly appreciate all that you have done for this book. Finally, thanks to Sister Joan for showing me what it takes to put a yearbook together. You are truly an amazing woman and one of my best friends.

Lebanon Valley College Alma Mater

To Thee dear Alma Mater
This ringing song we raise,
A song that's fraught with gladness,
A song that's filled with praise,
We cannot help but love Thee,
Our hearts are full and free,
Full well we know the debt we owe,
To dear old LVC.
We come from old New Hampshire,
Where winter breezes blow,
And from the sunny Southland,
Where sweet magnolias grow,
We've sung "Star Spangled Banner,"
To "Dixie" given a cheer,
And now we raise this song of praise,
To Alma Mater dear.
Put forth your strongest might,
And let our Alma Mater
Win each and every fight,
Lift high it's royal banner,
And keep it's honor clear,
And let our song with voices strong
Ring down thro' many a year.
